New Nazi Spy Plot Arrests Promised

FBI PICKS UP ASSOCIATES OF 8 SABOTEURS

G-Men Reveal Scope of Daring Plan to Damage America's Vital War Plants.

GET CONFESSIONS, PLANS

Washington Promises Prompt Action in Case; Death Penalty Possible.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight Nazi spy-saboteurs landed by U-boats on the east coast was announced last night by the FBI, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the startling case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20 000, increasing the total of "pay-off money" carried by the saboteurs to $170 000.

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl J Connolley, in announcing the new round-up 24 hours after FBI Director J Edgar Hoover had revealed the capture of the agents bent on a two-year campaign of destruction against the American war effort.

Some arrests of the suspected accomplices were made in Chicago, and some here. Those here were believed to have been made from among a group of German people living on Long Island not far from the de-

They Must Not Have Struggled!

NEW YORK—(INS)— Earl J Connelley, assistant to J. Edgar Hoover in the Federal Bureau of Investigation smiled today when asked by a reporter whether any of the eight German trained saboteurs put up a fight when arrested.

"They're still alive, aren't they?" he replied.

18-20½ Age Class Finishes Draft Sign Up Tomorrow

With a little less than half of the estimated total of 1,400 Richland county youths already registered, officials of the county's three draft boards today anticipated a comparatively light day tomorrow when the 18-to-20½-year-olds finish signing up for the draft.

The board offices and the two additional registration points in the county will be open from 7 a. m to 9 p m In six hours Saturday more than 600 youths registered.

The five registration points in the county are: Board 1, board headquarters in the Farmers Bank building, and the Legion home on Park avenue west; Board 2, board headquarters in the Richland Trust building; Board 3, board headquarters in the county courthouse, and the Shelby city building.

When tomorrow's registration is completed, the government will have a record of every man in the nation from 18 to 60—approximately 43,000,000.

The 18 and 19 year old classes are not now eligible for military service, but those over 20 may be called. Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Her-

20 Arrested As Autoists Jam Roads

Accuse 12 of Speeding, Six Others As Being Reckless Drivers.

With traffic on Mansfield area highways at its heaviest since Memorial day, state highway patrolmen reported a total of 20 arrests for various traffic violations over the week-end.

Twelve of the motorists were charged with speeding, six with reckless operation one with crossing a yellow line and one with driving while intoxicated.

The unusually heavy traffic was attributed by Corp. C. W. Cale, head of the Mansfield substation, to the fact that hundreds of motorists took to the highways Saturday and Sunday after staying at home for the last two week-ends because of inclement weather.

The ideal weather rather than the desire to have a last fling before the threatened gasoline rationing was the chief reason for the heavy traffic, Cole added.

"Too many drivers are still paying no heed to requests by President Roosevelt and Governor Bricker to drive more slowly and conserve on gas and tires," Cale said.

The majority of the motorists arrested for speeding over the week-end were traveling 70 miles per hour or better, patrolmen stated.

The total of 20 arrests was the highest for any week-end in several months, according to patrol records.

Speeders arraigned in municipal court this morning were Carl M Flint 25 of Cleveland, who was fined $25 and costs and John W Shipp, 25, of Sandusky, R D 1 fined $10 and costs Both drivers were arrested on U. S Route 42, Sunday.

Each fined $10 and costs on charges of speeding were Paul E Parcenue, 20, of 72 Home avenue, Joseph M Roberts of Minneapolis Ind · Robert S Scott, 29, of Ashland, and Willie Crook, 32, of Marion They were all arraigned in Mansfield area courts over the week-end.

WARMING UP

Summer Ready to Turn on Heat; Thundershowers Due.

Summer, which is a little more than a week old and so far hasn't lived up to its reputation, was ready to turn a blast of heat loose on Mansfield today.

The weatherman predicted considerably warmer weather with scattered thundershowers this afternoon and tonight. It may be cooler late tonight, he said.

The mercury moved up to a summery 85 degrees at noon today and appeared headed for higher levels this afternoon. Yesterday's high was 85. Lowest last night was 59.

HOUSE GIVEN PICTURE WAR PLANS PAINT

Billion Dollar Bill Submitted For Vote; Henderson and Nelson View Future.

WASHINGTON—The house appropriations committee today sent to the floor a $1,810,487 615 supply bill, boosting the nation's proposed defense expenditures to $228 000,000 000 since 1940, and along with the measure there were three warnings that the nation will have to tighten its belt to meet the increasing demands of war.

They were:

(1) That a general rationing program of at least 15 major groups of consumer items probably will be placed in effect before the end of the year.

(2) That the outlook for the consumer is very bad although the nation will have enough food and clothing and the country will be incomparably better off than England or Germany.'

(3) That the nation faces a critical shortage of manpower in industry, agriculture, and government service which will reach a peak in October.

The rationing prediction was included in a report by Price Administrator Leon Henderson to the house appropriations committee. He said there was "very real danger that our present ceilings on consumer goods will not hold."

Henderson told the committee during hearings on the bill that there would be a need for rationing of 15 major groups of items and the committee said that several were in "two of the basic cost of living groups which means" a general rationing program.

"It would be folly to name any specific items which are likely to be rationed," the committee said in its report "To do so would cause immediate runs on existing stocks and bring about rationing earlier than ordinarily would be necessary."

The statement that consumer outlook was 'very bad" was made to the committee by Donald M Nelson, head of the WPB—but Nelson added that the nation's plane, tank and ship objectives would be met."

The chief of the war production board made those statements in reviewing the WPB's work before a house appropriations subcommittee.

10 MORE DAYS

Rubber Drive Disappointing, Extension Ordered.

President Roosevelt today extended the scrap rubber collection drive for another 10 days because collections through Saturday night had brought in the "disappointing total of 219,000 tons.

The president acted upon the recommendation of Secretary of Interior Ickes and William Boyd, jr., chairman of the collecting campaign, who charged that, among other factors, hoarding of rubber was responsible for the poor showing.

The drive had been scheduled to close at midnight tomorrow night.

C L Hartenfels, Richland county scrap rubber collection chairman, reported today that 33,000 pounds had been turned in over the week-end at filling stations in the Mansfield area, bringing the total to date to 308,000 pounds.

Rommel Forces Race Eastward After Victory

Claim 6,000 British Prisoners Taken In Speedy Conquest of Stronghold; London Believes Eighth Army Waits Reinforcements.

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(UP)—Front line dispatches indicated today that the Red army was turning back heavy German attacks with great losses on the main southern fronts and stemming enemy attempts to launch a major offensive toward the Caucasus.

(By Associated Press)

The Axis announced today that its forces in Egypt captured Matruh this morning, thus reducing the first of the defense strongholds on the road to the rich valley of the Nile, the naval base of Alexandria and the Suez canal.

The British did not deny the claim.

But indications were that Allied forces making up the Eighth British army had withdrawn to make another stand in desperate search for positions from which the Axis juggernaut could be halted.

The tactics seemed to call for avoidance of a full scale clash with Field Marshal Rommel's columns so long as the defenders stood under the handicap of inferiority in tanks.

On one point of the Axis claims there was official British agreement—that Rommel's forces, successively by-passing Matruh's western and southern defense positions in two days of battle had reached around to the southeastern or Nile valley side of Matruh, prized railhead, 160 miles from Alexandria.

The Alexandria area was raided this morning by Axis planes but they caused little damage and no casualties, according to the official Egyptian report.

Berlin and Rome said that at Matruh Rommel captured more than 6,000 prisoners and that he was continuing the eastward drive.

The 6,000 figure suggested that the bulk of Matruh's defenders had been withdrawn. The Axis claimed a much larger prisoner haul—33,000—at Tobruk, just eight days ago when the last British foothold in Libya was captured.

Today's RAF communique from Cairo contained no hint on the course of the land battle. It reported merely that Axis truck and tank concentrations were attacked throughout Saturday and Sunday nights, with large fires springing up between Matruh and Salum, at the Libyan border, and that during Sunday fighters reconnoitered the foe and provided cover for the defense forces.

A London military commentator said, however, that there was reason to believe that the British had withdrawn from the "Matruh area."

At the same time the long-heralded main offensive of the German armies in Russia was reported under way in the Kursk

$587,000 TO BE JULY BOND GOAL

County's Quota Higher Than National Average Due To Excellent Showing.

Richland county's quota of war saving bond sales in July has been set at $587,000 — approximately $100,000 above expectations, the county bond committee was notified today.

This increase in the county's quota is higher than the national average boost of 25 per cent over the June quota The national goal was raised from $800 000,000 to one billion dollars for July.

The county's quota in May was $287,000 and in June $392,000. Based on the national average, the county committee had expected a quota of approximately $490,000 in July. However, the goal for the county was hiked another $100,000, it was understood, because of the excellent sales performance in Richland county to date.

The county went well over the top in May Official figures are not yet available for June, but Paul M Eliot, county bond chairman, predicted today that sales this month will "come very close" to the quota.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., listed state quotas in Washington today. The quotas range from a low of $1 038,000 for Nevada to TORSO VICTIM?

Dismembered Body of Youth Found in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — A dismembered body was found today in a trunk and suitcase under the Kinsman road bridge which spans the nickel plate railroad tracks near East 69th street and authorities believed that it might be another victim of Cleveland's "torso murderer."

It was reported that the body was that of a negro boy about 10 years old.

The place where the body was found is a short distance from where the headless body of one of the 13 victims of "the mad butcher of Kingsbury Run" was found several years ago.

NAVY BRIGHTENS MIDWAY STORY

Final Figures Show Japs Lost 10 Ships in Battle, Four of Them Plane Carriers.

(By Associated Press)

PEARL HARBOR, T H—The defeat of the Japanese invasion fleet of Midway island was even worse than first reported.

The navy, waiting until it had rounded up and checked all reports, flatly wrote off as Japanese losses the aircraft carrier Akagi, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Kaga, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Soryu, 10 050 tons the aircraft carrier Kiryu, 10,050 tons; two heavy cruisers, probably the 8,500 ton Mogami and the 8 500 ton Mikuma, three destroyers and a cargo and transport vessel.

Unofficial estimates placed the probable Japanese death list at 18,000 or more.

That added up to at least 10 ships sent to the bottom in the big sea-air battle earlier this month. The definite report of four carriers sunk contrasted with tentative reports on June 10 of "two and possibly three." The same reports listed only one other ship as definitely sunk, a destroyer.

The loss of 10 likewise was in

Army Confers Commissions On Doctors And Dentists Today

The parade of doctors and dentists from Mansfield and other cities in Richland and neighboring counties into the army started today in the assembly room of Mansfield General hospital, with representatives of the adjutant general and surgeon general in Washington administering the army oath.

Conferring of commissions into the army medical and dental corps started shortly after 10 30 a. m and by noon six doctors from this area had been sworn into the army.

Major H. S. Perry and Captain C E. Northrup, officers in charge, estimated that 15 doctors, including 10 from Mansfield, would receive their commissions today. "A considerable number" of others will have their commissions conferred later.

The board conferred the commissions individually One by one they raised their right hands and repeated the familiar words of the army officers' oath·

"I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; I will faithfully discharge my duties...so help me God."

First to receive his commission was Dr Everett C. Burgess, of Willard He was followed by Dr Riley E Frush of Lexington and Dr Alexander D. Robertson of Willard Next came two Mansfield physicians, Drs Ralph E Wharton and Robert G Angle Another Willard physician Dr

3 MORE SINKINGS

Navy Says Vessels Victims of Axis Submarines.

WASHINGTON—The navy today announced the sinking of three more vessels—one off the United States Atlantic coast and two off the coast of South America.

The ship sunk off our coast was a small United States merchant vessel The navy said survivors had been landed at an east coast port.

A small Norwegian and a small Yugoslavian merchant vessel were sunk in the Atlantic ocean off the northern coast of South America.

The navy statement gave these additional details:

"Survivors of the Norwegian vessel were picked up by the Yugoslavian ship, which was itself torpedoed Survivors from the former vessel have been landed at a gulf coast port, while those from the Yugoslavian ship are reported to have been landed at a Caribbean port outside the United States."

MOVES COMMAND

Army Transfers Air Force Training Headquarters to Fort Worth.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Transfer of the army air forces' flying training command headquarters from Washington, D. C., to Fort Worth, Tex., effective July 1, was announced by the war department today.

The move was made, the army pointed out because most of the army air forces flying training schools are located in the south and Fort Worth is the approximate geographical center of the area.

Conciliation Pleas Close Convention Of Rubber Workers

With pleas for conciliation in all labor disputes left with them by union leaders, 300 delegates to the mid-year convention of District 1 of the United Rubber Workers of America last night closed their two-day meeting here and started for home.

Before leaving, however, they passed a resolution denouncing "persons trying to promote disunity in labor" including isolationist congressmen and Columnist Westbrook Pegler They passed other resolutions reaffirming their faith in CIO President Philip Murray and in the government's labor-management plan to keep war production moving at top speed.

Desmond Walker, president of Mansfield's local 17, which played host for the convention, said that a blanket resolution had been introduced against "congressmen and newspaper columnists who

Ashland Man Killed In Fall From Car; State Toll At Five

The Mansfield area contributed one death to the state's week-end total of five persons killed in accidents on state highways as the traffic load increased with the beginning of vacation treks.

George Williams, 64, Ashland R D 3, died early today at the Ashland Samaritan hospital of injuries received Saturday when he fell from a moving automobile in Ashland.

Mrs. Nora Edmondson of East Fourth street, Ashland, had a close brush with death yesterday when she caught her heel in a railroad switch when an Erie railroad train was bearing down upon her. She loosened her heel and tumbled down a high embankment just before the train passed.

So close was her escape that the engineer of the train stopped it and made a search for her. He told police he saw the woman tumbling down the embankment as the train passed and feared that she had been struck.

Williams was fatally injured Saturday at 2:30 a. m while rid-

Whistles, Sirens To Signal Opening Of New Bond Drive

Let the bells ring out—and the whistles and the sirens and everything else in the city that makes noise.

This was the word today from the Mansfield Retail Merchants association committee arranging for the "White Out for Victory" celebration in Mansfield Wednesday—starting at noon sharp and continuing for 15 minutes.

In this 15-minute period, which signalizes the start of "Retailers for Victory" month, Mansfield's retail establishments will suspend sale of their regular merchandise and sell only war savings bonds and stamps.

To insure that most of Mansfield will be down town at noon Wednesday to take part in the celebration, the committee has arranged for all the noise-makers it can think of, and hopes that any others it hasn't thought about will take part.

J. R. Harrington, airport manager, will lead a squadron of planes which will circle over the downtown area during the 15-minute period and drop aerial bombs. Every factory in the city has been asked to blow its whistle and keep it blowing for the full 15 minutes. Church bells are to ring.

Merchants have arranged special stunts, and stores will provide sidewalk sales service on bonds and stamps. Each store has a quota of bond and stamp sales in July of four per cent of its normal sales figure.

The plan was made possible by the state legislature at its last session when it voted to simplify voting for Ohioans in the armed forces.

The special registration cards are about the size of postcards and may be mailed free by service men. The prospective voter must indicate whether he is a citizen of the United States, swear that he has lived in Ohio at least one year, and list his voting residence. A commissioned officer in the army must sign the card along with two other persons who give assurance that the information on the card is correct.

The card is then returned to the election board which must approve it and send a ballot to the applicant. The voter marks his ballot and returns it to the election board. Boards were asked to keep the card applications in a special receptacle until 30 days before the election, the legal time for action on absentee ballot applications.

Sweeney said election board officials, with the consent of selective service headquarters, will be stationed at draft board headquarters to give the cards to inductees before they leave for camp.

on the island of Crete.

If the Axis claim of victory at Matruh is borne out, an attempt at "vertical envelopment" of defense positions at the rear of the battered British Eighth army may be expected at any time.

The Italians, who seem to have been given the privilege of making the first and most complete Axis reports on the battle of Egypt, declared that 36 tanks and "numerous" artillery pieces and trucks were captured or destroyed in the Matruh assault.

Axis planes, Rome said, hit two steamers in the harbor there and set fire to 10 others and shot down 17 planes. German and Italian planes also struck anew at British positions on the mid-Mediterranean island of Malta.

The Allies, including the United States, were counting highly on air power to help turn the tide of battle. Many planes, including United States air force units, have been thrown into the struggle.

The Germans, on the other hand, appeared also to have drawn heavily on their air resources in Europe, to challenge the Allies in the desert skies.

London authorities evidently were not clear on details of the Matruh battle. A military commentator said that if the defense forces actually had withdrawn, as suspected, it was to hold a line farther east.

"This was done while limited British tanks, artillery and armored cars engaged advancing German troops," he said, emphasizing that Matruh "is not the last bastion between Tobruk and Alexandria."

He actually discounted Axis suggestions that the main defense forces had been engaged by the enemy.

If the enemy has superior tank strength, he said, it is likely the British have avoided engaging the entire invasion force and are trying to cut down Rommel's armored superiority in unit-by-unit actions.

Such a maneuver might force the defenders to withdraw deeper into Egypt until they reached suitable positions and proper balance to engage the enemy on a broad scale.

Rommel, aware of the import of this tactic, was doing his best by airpower to break up positions at the rear of the British eighth army, blasting at supply dumps, communications and air fields.

The scope of action in the Mediterranean area was momentarily broadened by an early morning raid by three Axis planes on Gibraltar. The British reported no damage there but the Germans said several planes were destroyed on a military airfield.

The British air offensive against western Europe was marked over night by a sharp attack on the German submarine base at St. Nazaire, France, as a follow-up to Saturday night's devastating repeat assault on the German port of Bremen where many of Hitler's U-boat raiders of the Atlantic have been built.

The RAF night raiders also blasted at German air fields and railway objectives in northern France and channel shipping.

The Germans bombed England's southwest coast last night, for a

serted beach at Amagansett, where the first group of four Nazi terrorists landed June 13.

Hoover gave the names of those in this group as George John Dasch, 39, leader; Ernest Peter Burger, 36, who in 1931 was a private in the Michigan national guard; Heinrich Harm Heinck, 35, and Robert Quirin, 34.

They came ashore in a rubber boat with money and explosives, and with lists of key railroad centers, bridges and war plants which Hoover said they planned to blow up. They also were equipped with forged selective service and social security cards, Hoover said.

Similarly equipped was the group of four which landed at Ponte Vedra beach near Jacksonville, Fla., June 17, Hoover said, listing these as Edward John Kerling, 33, group leader; Herbert Kaupt, 22; Werner Thiel, 35, and Hermann Neubauer, 32.

"We have their full statements of confession," Hoover declared. "We have all the plans they brought with them."

The plans called for the destruction of, among other objectives, three plants of the Aluminum Company of America and indicated that the mission's main attack was to be against the light-metal industry which would have delayed America's all-important program of airplane production.

The FBI did not reveal how the dynamiters were caught.

In Washington Attorney General Biddle said the Department of Justice would handle the case "swiftly and thoroughly," though the question of prosecution has not been settled.

Some sources pointed out that the saboteurs changed to civilian clothes after coming ashore in uniforms and said that as a result they could be classed as spies and shot.

TELEGRAM ANNOUNCES WEDDING DATE DURING GALION PARTY

GALION—A telegram delivered to the door was the novel device used to announce the personal bridal shower for Meriam Schreck when Kathryn Brewer entertained members of her bridge club at her home Saturday evening. Miss Schreck, who will be married Tuesday afternoon, June 30, to William Munteau, of East Palestine, received many lovely gifts.

At the luncheon served later in the evening by the hostess, gaily decorated sprinkling cans filled with sweet peas and other flowers accentuated the table. Colored paper streamers led the guests to their places. Among the out-of-town guests were Meriam Pfeifer and Alice Schreck of Columbus. Mrs. Arthur Schreck, mother of the prospective bride, was also present.

WED AT CHURCH

Galion Girl Becomes Bride of Crestline Resident.

GALION—The parsonage of the First Lutheran church was the scene of a Saturday morning wedding when Elizabeth Englehart of Galion became the bride of George S. Keller of Crestline. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. Harry R. Merle.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Raymond Callender, and Mrs. Leona Sisco, both of Galion, were the attendants, while John Wallis of Mansfield, served as best man.

A wedding breakfast served by Mrs. Harry Volk was enjoyed by the party and the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Luke Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallis and Mr. and Mrs. Tunis Dillon, all of Mansfield. After a week's trip through the Smokey mountains the couple will reside at 619 East Main street, Crestline.

Mrs. Keller has been employed at the Stratbury Manufacturing company and her husband operates the Auto Service garage in Crestline.

PLAN PICNIC

CRESTLINE — Hostess for the June meeting of the Alpha Sigma club, Mrs. John Marquart took her guests to Greenlawn, west of here where a 6 o'clock dinner was served. Following the dinner the group returned to the Marquart home on N. Columbus street for card games in which prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. E. Iman and Mrs. I. G. Foster.

For their July 16 meeting the group planned a picnic at Hamilton park.

NAME OFFICERS

ASHLAND — When the 1927 class of Ashland high school met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fike for their annual reunion they elected the following officers: Oscar Morr, president; Howard Maxheimer, vice president and treasurer, and Marvin Hoffman, secretary.

Another Mansfield physician, Dr. Charles G. Brown, secretary f the Richland County Medical ociety, today received notice to eport July 11 at the army embarkation point in New Orleans, resumably for overseas service. He will be commissioned a first eutenant.

Dr. Brown had applied for his ommission several months ago, ut most of the others who came efore the board today had applied for commissions with the ame board on June 15.

Captain Northrup indicated at he opening of this morning's ession that the physicians who ad applied for commissions as ajor would be offered captaines. He said that each commission as being offered after careful udy and consideration, and told e group.

"If the war lasts a long time, good part of your careers may spent in the Army. Everyone ll have a chance to think the atter over, and may return bere 4 p. m. today. This board ll follow the regular practice notifying his selective service ard in the case of any physician dentist who declines the comssion offered him."

Major Perry said that Mansield will not suffer any more elatively than any other city the nation in loss of its doctors and dentists entering the rmy. Mansfield physicians, if nything, will have an advanage, he said, because they have recognized their responsiility."

The tentative proposal is for e physician for each 2,000 popation—which would mean approximately 20 doctors in Mansld, as against the 55 in practice re a year ago.

Those who receive commisns today may expect to receive eir orders in about 10 days as where to report for active duty, jor Perry said.

MATRUH FALLS TO NAZIS, PUTS SUEZ IN PERIL

German Tank Forces Race East Toward Nile as British Fight Delaying Action.

area, south of Moscow and north of Kharkov, where the enemy appeared to be attempting a wide-swinging move to cut communications between the Russians' central and southern fronts, to prepare the way for a drive into the Caucasus.

The full weight of Germany's all-out assault in Russia was bearing down on the Red armies in both the Kharkov and Kursk areas.

Thus the Axis pincers on the Middle East, the Suez canal and Alexandria took shape in the coordinated drives in Russia and Egypt, aimed evidently at closing in on the Suez region and Asia minor from two directions, through the Caucasus northeast of Suez and through Egypt on the west.

An additional threat—still not materialized—to the Mediterranean flank of the defense forces in Egypt was a concentration of German air power and air troops on the island of Crete.

If the Axis claim of victory at Matruh is borne out, an attempt at "vertical envelopment" of defense positions at the rear of the battered British Eighth army may be expected at any time.

The Italians, who seem to have been given the privilege of making the first and most complete Axis reports on the battle of Egypt, declared that 36 tanks and "numerous" artillery pieces and trucks were captured or destroyed in the Matruh assault.

Axis planes, Rome said, hit two steamers in the harbor there and set fire to 10 others and shot down 17 planes. German and Italian planes also struck anew at British positions on the mid-Mediterranean island of Malta.

The Allies, including the United States, were counting highly on air power to help turn the tide of battle. Many planes, including United States air force units, have been thrown into the struggle.

The Germans, on the other hand, appeared also to have drawn heavily on their air resources in Europe, to challenge the Allies in the desert skies.

London authorities evidently were not clear on details of the Matruh battle. A military commentator said that if the defense forces actually had withdrawn, as suspected, it was to hold a line farther east.

"This was done while limited British tanks, artillery and armored cars engaged advancing German troops," he said, emphasizing that Matruh "is not the last bastion between Tobruk and Alexandria."

He actually discounted Axis suggestions that the main defense forces had been engaged by the enemy.

If the enemy has superior tank strength, he said, it is likely the British have avoided engaging the entire invasion force and are trying to cut down Rommel's armored superiority in unit-by-unit actions.

Such a maneuver might force the defenders to withdraw deeper into Egypt until they reached suitable positions and proper balance to engage the enemy on a broad scale.

Rommel, aware of the import of his tactic, was doing his best by airpower to break up positions at the rear of the British eighth army, blasting at supply dumps, communications and air fields.

The scope of action in the Mediterranean area was momentarily broadened by an early morning raid by three Axis planes on Gibraltar. The British reported no damage there but the Germans said several planes were destroyed on a military airfield.

The British air offensive against western Europe was marked over night by a sharp attack on the German submarine base at St. Nazaire, France, as a follow-up to Saturday night's devastating repeat assault on the German port of Bremen where many of Hitler's U-boat raiders of the Atlantic have been built.

The RAF night raiders also blasted at German air fields and railway objectives in northern France and channel shipping.

The Germans bombed England's southwest coast last night, for a second successive night, devoting 30 minutes to one town, but the British indicated that the action was otherwise compared with the mass tactics of the RAF.

As for the battle of Russia, the Germans had not reported on the Kursk offensive; Moscow pictured both as a feeler and a threat to cut army communications, while London interpreted it as the principal German offensive since the coming of spring.

The Germans reported that German and Rumanian troops forced crossing of the Tchneraja valley and infiltrated to Mount Sapun at Sevastopol. This prominence forms part of the natural defenses southeast of Sevastopol.

The city and harbor, Crimean base of the Red fleet in the Black sea, was still in Russian hands.

Churchill Prepared for Showdown

LONDON—(U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has perfected his strategy and tactics for the two-day full dress war debate in the house of commons, it was understood today, and is confident that he will win an impressive vote of confidence.

Churchill spent much of the week-end in conference with Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister and leader of the labor party; Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal, and other members of the war cabinet.

It was indicated that Churchill, adopting the course which his advisers had recommended, would demand a vote on the most hostile of a series of motions on the direction of the war, a motion which attacks him directly in his capacity of minister of defense. Adoption of such a motion would mean Churchill's resignation.

shey, national selective service adminstrator, has stated that it might be necessary to call the youngest groups later, and that President Roosevelt may decide in a few months to amend the draft laws again to permit their induction.

Induction of 18-year-olds was authorized in the last war a few months before the armistice, but few of them got overseas.

Instead of a lottery to determine the order of service for the 20-year-olds, local boards will index the cards by birthdays and call the oldest first. The other youths become eligible for military service as they reach their 20th birthdays.

serted beach at Amagansett, where the first group of four Nazi terrorists landed June 13.

Hoover gave the names of those in this group as George John Dasch, 39, leader; Ernest Peter Burger, 36, who in 1931 was a private in the Michigan national guard; Heinrich Harm Heinck, 35, and Robert Quirin, 34.

They came ashore in a rubber boat with money and explosives, and with lists of key railroad centers, bridges and war plants which Hoover said they planned to blow up. They also were equipped with forged selective service and social security cards, Hoover said.

Similarly equipped was the group of four which landed at Ponte Vedra beach near Jacksonville, Fla., June 17, Hoover said, listing these as Edward John Kerling, 33, group leader; Herbert Kaupt, 22; Werner Thiel, 35, and Hermann Neubauer, 32.

"We have their full statements of confession," Hoover declared. "We have all the plans they brought with them."

The plans called for the destruction of, among other objectives, three plants of the Aluminum Company of America and indicated that the mission's main attack was to be against the light-metal industry which would have delayed America's all-important program of airplane production.

The FBI did not reveal how the dynamiters were caught.

In Washington Attorney General Biddle said the Department of Justice would handle the case "swiftly and thoroughly," though the question of prosecution has not been settled.

Some sources pointed out that the saboteurs changed to civilian clothes after coming ashore in uniforms and said that as a result they could be classed as spies and shot.

NAVY BRIGHTENS MIDWAY STORY

sharp contrast with Japanese admissions that only one carrier went down.

The navy said a fourth destroyer very probably was sunk and that considerable damage was wrought on two or three battleships, three or four other heavy cruisers, a light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels. Another transport or cargo ship was listed as probably sunk.

That meant: 10 ships known sunk, two believed sunk and between 10 and 12 damaged.

The carrier losses included the destruction of 275 Japanese planes and their crews.

An Associated Press staff man who witnessed some of the Midway battle from a cruiser reported later that the Japanese fleet included five carriers. So only one of them got away.

The United States has admitted the loss of one destroyer and damage to an aircraft carrier.

The staggering totals add up to a terrific cost paid by the Japanese for their self-styled "diversion" to permit the landing of troops in the Aleutians The American viewpoint has been that the crushing defeat administered by army, navy and marine fliers and by submarines frustrated an invasion of the Hawaiian islands with Midway as the stepping stone.

VETERAN ROBBED

Bandit Takes $1,700 From 104-Year-Old Retired Soldier.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Authorities disclosed today that a holdup man had stolen the $1,700 savings of William D. Welsh, 104-year-old Civil war veteran and retired steamboat captain.

The money was taken from a trunk in Welsh's bedroom Saturday night while the bandit pointed a gun at Mrs. Lee Bruin, Welsh's daughter. Lee Bruin, jr., 11, pulled the trigger on a rifle in an attempt to stop the robber but the gun failed to discharged and the man got away.

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Things apparently weren't going well for the British in the battle for Egypt as this great engagement, upon which so much Allied hope depends, moved into its third day.

Both Berlin and Rome claimed Axis forces had occupied Matruh, the coastal stronghold to which the British right wing was anchored. Simultaneously a London military commentator said there was some reason for thinking that the British had withdrawn all troops from the Matruh area.

There was no official confirmation of the Matruh claim, but should it prove to be true it would mean that the British situation had become exceedingly grave.

It would make most precarious the position of the great naval, air and military base of Alexandria, 160 miles away. And should Alexandria succumb it would be a catastrophe.

British headquarters in Cairo did announce that the conflict had penetrated deeper into this strategic zone — meaning, of course, that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel had fought his way farther forward.

Word that the battle had spread to the southeast of Matruh made it clear that he was trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress.

There is danger that Hitler may choose this critical moment to employ his airforce either to strengthen Rommel's striking power or to try a lightning invasion of Syria with air-borne troops.

The Greek government-in-exile stated in London today that the Nazis have moved thousands of troops by air into Crete this month and also have considerably increased their air force. Crete certainly is the breeding ground of trouble for the Allies in the Near and Middle East.

Girls In Swedish Munitions Plant Become Redheads

NEW YORK—(INS)—"Find a job in an explosives factory," is the latest beauty hint for the girls.

A Stockholm broadcast heard by CBS reported that Swedish lassies employed in a certain munitions plant have been becoming redheads because the chemicals used "affects the substance in the hair."

There is a catch, however, the Stockholm radio asserts, saying "unfortunately for the men who may have chosen their girls for their red hair, they may wake up one day to find that if redheads are blondes or brunettes again, as the color disappears as soon as the women cease to work around the dangerous explosives."

Senate Acts on Army Supply Bill Today

MAKES VOTING EASIER FOR MEN IN U. S. FORCES

State Draws Up Simplified Plan, Calls on Relatives, Friends to Help.

The way was opened today by Secretary of State John E. Sweeney for hundreds of Richland county service men and thousands throughout Ohio to vote in the November election although they may be far from home.

Sweeney set up a simplified absentee voting plan which will enable service men to register with their election boards by mail and receive an absentee ballot without going to the trouble of making formal application for ballots.

He called on relatives and friends of voters in the armed forces and members of fraternal and civic organizations to help distribute the special registration cards to soldiers, sailors and marines and women who are serving their country away from home.

The plan was made possible by the state legislature at its last session when it voted to simplify voting for Ohioans in the armed forces.

The special registration cards are about the size of postcards and may be mailed free by service men. The prospective voter must indicate whether he is a citizen of the United States, swear that he has lived in Ohio at least one year, and list his voting residence. A commissioned officer in the army must sign the card along with two other persons who give assurance that the information on the card is correct.

The card is then returned to the election board which must approve it and send a ballot to the applicant. The voter marks his ballot and returns it to the election board. Boards were asked to keep the card applications in a special receptacle until 30 days before the election, the legal time for action on absentee ballot applications.

Sweeney said election board officials, with the consent of selective service headquarters, will be stationed at draft board headquarters to give the cards to inductees before they leave for camp.

4 KILLED IN BOMBER CRASH

Army Fliers Die When Ship Dives Into Hayfield Near Lebanon.

(By United Press)

DAYTON — A twin-motored medium bomber crashed in a hayfield nine miles northeast of Lebanon, Sunday, killing its crew of four army fliers who were enroute from Patterson field to a southern air base.

Those killed were 2nd Lt. W. K. Van Zandt, Canton, N. Y., the pilot; 2nd Lt. Ralph A. Oehman, Jr., Gilford College, N. C., copilot; Technical Sgt. S. K. Elder, Denver, Colo., and Staff Sgt. Earl J. Corder, Kansas City, Mo.

Army officials had not determined the cause of the accident. George Jordan, who lives near the scene of the crash, said that "the plane's motors were going until just before it fell right straight down."

Frank Tietmeyer, who also lives nearby, said he heard the plane's motors "cutting off and on" before the crash and said it circled as though trying to land.

The bomber crashed on a farm operated by Steve Reynolds. It did not burn.

The four victims were from Lowry Field, Colo., but had been training at Patterson Field.

HIKE GASOLINE PRICE ON COAST

But Few Dealers Have Fuel on Which to Impose Increase.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— A two and one-half cents per gallon increase in the price of gasoline went into effect along the eastern seaboard today, but few dealers had any gasoline upon which to impose the higher price.

Described as the worst situation since rationing started in mid-May, 80 per cent of the 55,000 dealers from Maine to Florida were reported to be completely out of gasoline.

Officials indicated that nothing could be done to alleviate the stortage until new supplies are delivered Wednesday.

CHUTE FOUND

Flier's Safety Device Washed Up on California Shore.

HALF MOON BAY, Cal.—(INS)—The sheriff's office said today that an army parachute bearing the name of Lieut. George Reeve, jr., of Ashland, Ky., had been found washed up on the beach near Half Moon bay.

Lieut. Reeve lost his life when his plane collided with that of Lieut. Walter E. Rumbaugh, Dayton, O., June 9. The latter's body was recovered, but Reeve's body has not been found.

WARN SCAB, HESSIAN FLY WILL LAY WASTE TO OHIO'S WHEAT

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Wheat scab will cost Ohio's farmers $3,000,000 this year and the Hessian fly may lay waste to 30 per cent of next year's crop, Ohio State university experts asserted today.

David F. Beard, extension agronomist at Ohio State, estimated that a scab caused by rainy, cold weather at the blossom and wheat-heading time, would slash Ohio's wheat yield 10 per cent this year.

The extent of the damage varies from 4 per cent in some areas to 15 per cent in others. On the basis of a 39,000,000 bushel wheat crop predicted by the federal-state crop reporting service, Beard estimated the loss would reach $3,000,000.

T. H. Parks, another specialist, said the Hessian fly infestation has not damaged this year's crop appreciably, but the fly population has increased to such an extent a large portion of next year's crop may have to be plowed under.

"In 1920, thirty per cent of the acreage was abandoned because of Hessian fly infestation," he asserted. "This could happen next year if seeding is not timed properly."

Parks explained that early seeding gives the fly an opportunity to lay eggs on the wheat in the fall, while proper sowing is timed so that the wheat will not appear until after the egg-laying period.

"Safe sowing" dates range from Sept. 23 in the extreme northern section of the state to Oct. 5 along the Ohio river. Seeding as little as three days too soon may spell the difference between controlling the fly and losing a portion of the crop, Parks cautioned. "Safe" dates may be obtained from county agents.

DECISION DUE

War Chest Proposal To Be Discussed Tonight.

A proposal to combine Mansfield Community Fund, war relief, and all purely local drives for funds into one major campaign will be considered by 90 representatives of the city's business, industrial, and professional groups at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The meeting was called by the executive board of the Mansfield Community Fund which has offered leadership and facilities in the movement. The session tonight will be open to the public.

It was pointed out that the plan would eliminate a number of campaigns for funds which overlap in the city. Election of an executive committee is scheduled for tonight if the plan is sanctioned by the representatives at the meeting.

Mansfield police are looking for a "telephone pest" who has been harassing some Mansfield residents during the past week. One woman reported to police that "a man with a young voice" had telephoned several business places and had placed orders for her without her knowledge. The complaining resident said that 12 pork chops and two tons of coal were delivered at her home without being ordered by her and that four taxicabs had arrived for passengers because of the same mysterious calls.

Eight doctors from Mansfield, Wooster and Willard were on hand before the scheduled opening time of the Army Medical Recruiting Board's session in the assembly room of General hospital this morning. The board arrived at 9:30 to start its session, and within a half hour the room was jammed. Major H. C. Perry, officer in charge, invited questions, and he was peppered with queries indicating the desire of the physicians and dentists to learn about Army clothing, insurance, transportation, and many of the other phases of life they have ahead of them as Army officers.

FIGHTS DEATH

U. S. Marshal in Hospital Following Shooting.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—U. S. Deputy Marshal Veley E. Main, 53, of Delaware, O., was in fair condition today at Mercy hospital, where he was being treated for a bullet wound in the lower right chest received while attempting to arrest a drunken driver Saturday evening.

Hospital attendants were not certain whether the bullet had pierced the lung, but said that all preparations were made for a transfusion.

Police held James W. Matheny, 56, of Columbus, in connection with the shooting. Charges probably will be made by federal authorities, according to Police Inspector Thomas Scully.

KILLS FRIEND, ENDS OWN LIFE

Gassed World War Veteran Uses Shotgun and Pistol.

PHILADELPHIA— (INS) —A gassed World war veteran today shot and killed his boyhood friend and fellow-lodger with a shotgun and then ended his own life with a pistol in a South Philadelphia rooming house, police reported.

Police declared that Giovanni R. Paltrone, 55, a jobless shoemaker, first shot Pietro Raspa, 40, as Raspa was descending the stairs. Paltrone was found lying on a third-floor bedroom with a pistol wound in the head.

Mrs. Joseph Talotti, the landlady, said the war veteran "acted very queerly in the past two weeks."

FUND MEASURE LARGEST IN U. S. HISTORY

Appropriation of 42 Billion Provides Expansion of Armed Forces.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The senate today is expected to pass the $42,820,003,057 army supply bill—largest single appropriation in American history—which will boost the total cost of this nation's war program to more than $200,000,000,000.

With some congressional leaders in military affairs predicting that the army will be increased to a total of 7,000,000 fighting men, it appears probable that an early request may be made for additional funds.

Some fiscal experts expressed the belief that the total cost of victory over Germany, Italy and Japan will be $300,000,000,000.

Sen. Thomas (D., Okla.) in charge of the army measure, declared that the funds voted by congress will provide the U. S. with the best equipped army it has ever sent forth to battle.

Congress meanwhile faces the threat of night sessions to enact budget measures before the new fiscal year begins Wednesday.

One major conflict is the deadlock between the two chambers on a house rider to the $680,000,000 agriculture supply bill, prohibiting sale of government controlled surpluses below parity. A final effort will be made to reach a compromise in conference today, and if that fails leaders plan to rush through a resolution temporarily continuing this year's appropriations.

The house and senate are also split on continuation of the civilian conservation corps. The lower chamber voted to abolish it, but the senate voted $76,529,800 to continue it on a reduced basis. A joint conference committee is scheduled to meet on the issue.

The army supply bill carries funds to provide an army of 4,500,000 next year, money to purchase 23,550 airplanes, nearly $10,000,000 for ordnance, including tanks and guns, $620,000,000 for gas warfare and more than $2,000,000 to expand army camps both in the United States and abroad.

The measure provides $12,700,000,000 to step up lend-lease aid to Russia, China and other nations. This, the senate appropriations committee said, raises the total to $62,944,650,000 for this purpose.

Orville Wright Goes To Bat For Grover Bergdoll

DAYTON—(AP)—Orville Wright, 70-year-old co-inventor of the airplane, went to bat today for draft-dodger Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, his one-time flying pupil

Asserting in an interview that he was not defending "slackers," Wright expressed belief that Bergdoll had been punished more severely than any other World War I draft evader and that it was "time to stop making a national scapegoat of him."

"There were many other slackers in this country who were just as bad or worse than Bergdoll," Wright asserted. "Hardly any of them were prosecuted after the war. It was just because Bergdoll made the authorities look silly that his case was followed."

Wright said Bergdoll, then one of the nation's leading sportsman flyers, was refused admission to the aviation section of Army signal corps and that resentment prompted his resolve not to serve as an infantryman and his subsequent flight from the United States.

WOOLLCOTT ILL

BOSTON — (INS) — Alexander Woollcott, radio town crier, newspaper man, author, and actor, today was reported "resting satisfactorily" after undergoing a gall bladder operation.

The 55-year-old writer, whose sarcastic wit inspired "The Man Who Came to Dinner" stage hit, was recently discharged from a Syracuse, N. Y., hospital where he was treated for a heart ailment.

Lidice Should Also Be Remembered

CIVILIZED people, the world over, have long recognized a line of demarcation between killing human beings in battle and murdering them in cold blood.

Such a line has been consistently ignored by Hitler and his Axis associates, and it is this reversion to barbarism that presents one of the strongest reasons why nothing short of utter annihilation of Nazi control in Europe and Japanese dominance in the Far East can safeguard the freedom and lives of people in any part of the world.

The extent to which Nazis had carried "reprisal" killings in occupied countries had horrified people everywhere, even before the wanton slaughter of hundreds of hostages that followed the assassination of Hangman Heydrich in Czechoslovakia.

Then came the unspeakable crime of wiping out the village of Lidice, where the entire male population of about 350 was slain by a firing squad, the women sent to concentration camps and the children to Nazi "educational institutions."

Not long afterward it was the tiny town of Lezaky that was blotted out by the insane fury of the Nazis, who murdered all the men in the town.

These are not isolated incidents, they merely follow the pattern of Hitlerized Germany's almost unbelievable brutality in murdering hundreds of innocent "hostages" in reprisal for any show of insubordination in occupied territory.

It has been estimated that out of 500,000 persons shot in Europe since the start of the German trail of conquests, some 25,000 have perished in mass massacres similar to the ones in Lidice and Lezaky.

Candidly, the United States is not engaged in this war to "save" Great Britain, or Russia, or China, but is merely joining with the military forces of these nations in an effort to prevent Axis atrocities from spreading further—even into this hemisphere and country.

Substitute the names of two Richland county villages for Lidice and Lezaky as you consider the extent to which personal sacrifices are justified in assuring victory for the United Nations, and you will realize more fully what an "all out" war really means—and what would follow defeat.

Vacations Without Travel Advised

ANOTHER of the conflicting ideas associated with wartime planning is on the subject of vacations.

No differences of opinion have been expressed as to the advisability of everybody taking a vacation of some sort, but avoidance of long trips, either by plane, train, bus or private car, is being strongly urged.

Joseph R. Eastman, director of defense transportation, pleads for a voluntary halt of unnecessary travel, both by private automobile and public carriers, and he suggests that all conventions, meetings and tours that do not have a direct bearing on the war effort be cancelled.

Approving vacations as helpful to efficiency and morale, Mr. Eastman asks that they be planned so as not to overload railroads and buses and that motorists refrain from using their cars for long trips, to save wear on tires.

So it seems to become a patriotic duty to take this summer's vacation at home—or very close to home.

Helium Becomes More Plentiful

PROGRESSIVE cheapening of the products of modern civilization is shown interestingly in the case of helium, a gas named for the sun because there is so much of it there, but very scarce on this earth in a natural state.

When the last war was in operation, helium was merely a rare non-explosive gas worth $2,000 per cubic foot, for experimental purposes. Now it is produced in immense quantities for about a cent and a half a foot. Its great value is its inert quality. Because it will not burn, it exists plentifully in the sun, but getting it from that source would be a delicate problem. It is extracted from some veins of natural gas by extreme cold.

And what good is it? Well, it supports the balloons scouting for enemy submarines along American shores.

Among Baseball's Immortals

PAUL WANER has joined the immortals. Playing for the Boston Braves, he has become the seventh player in baseball history to make 3,000 hits, and thus keep company with such major stars as Cobb, Speaker, Wagner, Lajoie, Collins and the father of them all, old Adrian C. Anson.

To make 3,000 hits a player must average 200 hits a season for 15 seasons. Few last as long as 15 years, and fewer make 200 hits in one season, let alone 15. To make 200 hits a year, a player must get a hit and a third per game if he plays every day. Every game missed makes his task that much harder.

Paul Waner has played 17 years, and probably will not better his record very much. With his brother Lloyd he made the most successful brother combination in baseball records. Known to opposing teams as "Big Poison" and "Little Poison," Paul and Lloyd made pitchers miserable for 15 years, and Pittsburgh correspondingly happy. Now neither is with his original team, but neither is forgotten.

Less Danger for Pets

REDUCTION in number of cars on highways is at least a break for animals, wild and tame alike.

Distressing to motorists of ordinary human sympathies has been the sight of dogs, cats, squirrels, rabbits and other animals lying dead by the roadside—victims usually of empty-headed speeders. It became so bad that any pet, living on a main traveled road, was almost sure to meet death in a few months.

Some way should be found to make this more than a reprieve.

It is being proudly proclaimed that this is a land of so much freedom that a well-known trombone player died recently, at the age of 71, "of natural causes."

'Pay-as-You-Go' Theory Pressed

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

THE poorer we feel while the war's going on, the better we'll feel when it's over. Such is Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau's reasoning, as argued by him before the congressional finance committee at repeated sessions recently.

He's done it pretty confidentially, but the general purport of his idea is no particular secret. In fact, I think he likes to have the public understand what he has in mind on the theory that folk will squirm less under pressure of the present and prospectively still severer pinch if they realize that it's being administered to 'em for their own subsequent good.

As to taxation, the treasury needs the money, of course. That's the immediate purpose in squeezing it out to the limit of its availability.

What's paid now, though, won't have to be paid later on. Buying for cash as far as possible, has the same national advantages that it has for an individual. The latter, caught in some sort of an emergency, may have to deplete his bank account to an extent that'll make him ache.

Nevertheless, if he does so, he won't find himself stuck on into the indefinite hereafter with an uncontrollable pile of indebtedness, to worry him, maybe, for the rest of his life. Having paid up as he went along, he'll start out afresh with a clean slate. His post-emergency earnings will be HIS, with no accumulation of creditors' claims scooping 'em off ahead of him.

Cash Customers.

Same with the government, and, via the government, on down through the people.

The government, to be sure, won't be able to pay cash for all ITS war supplies or for more than a smallish fraction of 'em. It'll be a debt for the balance for a matter of generations. Taxes'll stay something awful as long as we live, and then some. Still, we may as well be cash customers as far as we can keep up with current bills. Perhaps our great grandchildren'll get the benefit of it—if they don't perpetrate another war before their day.

Secretary Morgenthau, however, isn't solely after spot cash.

Big collections aren't his only objective. He deliberately WANTS to force families to skimp on purchases. It's part of the anti-inflation program. Leon Henderson's prescription is to hold prices down by putting ceilings on 'em. Henry Morgenthau's plan is to prevent buying by keeping folk from having any money, left over from taxes, to buy WITH.

It isn't such a bad scheme. Leon attacks the situation from overhead. Henry hits it at the source.

But that isn't all of Henry's dope.

He's hollering for popular investments in governmental war bonds—by multi-millionaire corporations down to little skeezicks with only stamps that they can take their change in—securities to be cashed in on after the war.

Henry agrees that we'll have a cracking big debt, to be settled then.

All right. Who's to collect it?

Why, WE will—the holders of those bonds and stamps. We'll be paying OURSELVES.

I'm not so sure that this financiering is correct.

How About the Yield?

Suppose a country saves up its resources for a score of years or more, then throws it in the cookstove, with interest. I'm doubtful of the yield, no matter how big the cookstove is.

My guess would be that heck would be raised by the stove's total consumption rather than by any individual contributor's contribution of fuel.

I'd bet that the whole thing would act and react.

All the same, Secretary Morgenthau's plan ought to have its local merits.

He appears to have convinced our congressional finance committees quite effectively.

Listen World!

'Come Forth!'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DON'T pretend to understand the Bible, even though I've read it all my life. But there are stories in it and burning words which move me as nothing else can.

You know how it is when something smashes your whole life to smithereens . . . some grief or sickness or shock. And you come out of it too numb to feel or care, heedless of your place in life, careless of your responsibility. Things happen. Calls come, imperative needs clamor for your service. But you sit there, too weary to live again.

I was sitting that way the other day. Never had I thought that anything could cramp my stride. But five months in bed had drawn a veil across my eyes. Nothing came through. Nothing seemed to matter. And suddenly there came to me the memory of that dark day long ago when they told Christ that His friend Lazarus was dead.

Remember that story? The four of them who had been so close together in their brief and harassed years—Mary and Martha, Lazarus and their dearest companion, Jesus of Nazareth. But there was so little time for personal pleasure in His life. And so it happened that while He was upon His mission, Lazarus sickened and died and was laid away in his tomb. And he had been four days dead already when Christ turned again to Bethany to seek the comfort of their home.

But there was no comfort awaiting Him this time. While He was still a long way off Martha met Him, wailing, "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died . . . but I know that even now, whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it to thee." And Mary, going out to meet Him, sobbed the same refrain until His heart, which was human as well as divine, broke with pity and wept in response. Then slowly they made their way to the grave where Lazarus had lain for four days, the grave sealed with a great stone, as was the custom in those days.

Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up His eyes and said, "Father, I thank thee if thou hast heard me. And I know that thou hearest me always: but because of the people who stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me." And when He thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth!" And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot in grave cloths and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus said unto them, "Loose him and let him go."

A miracle! A miracle far beyond our comprehension. We cannot bring the dead to life though we break our hearts in the attempt. But there is more, I think, to this record than the story of a man brought back to life. There are many ways of death and they do not always end in the grave.

The spirit may die so often while the body goes through the meaningless motions of life for which it no longer cares. We may die through broken dreams, through failure and humiliation, through indifference or complacency. And we may lie, as Lazarus lay, for days or years in self made graves. But though the living world forgets us and even our dearest ones resign us to oblivion, there is One who never forgets. And sooner or later that One stands before our grave, stands before whatever rock has sealed us in, and cries:

COME FORTH!

I cannot understand the miracles of Christ, even though I believe they all happened. But I can understand the death which men will upon themselves, for I have been through that death myself and I know its numbness and its darkness. And I can understand the sound of a voice piercing that darkness, the sound of Life crying:

COME FORTH!

This is a simple truth for all of us. But we have never needed to know it as terribly as we need to know it now. We have lain so long, we Americans, in the darkness of our comfort or our discontent, our greed or our inertia, our peevishness or our fear and envy. But now we dare lie still no longer. Through the darkness a voice comes calling. Through our isolation a command echoes:

COME FORTH! FORGET YOURSELF. FORGET YOUR FEAR OR FURY OR FRUSTRATION. LIFE NEEDS YOU! THERE IS A GREATER CAUSE TO SERVE THAN YOUR OWN GRIEF OR ANGER. RISE FROM YOUR GRAVE! TAKE YOUR PLACE AMONGST THE LIVING. ANSWER THEIR CRY. COME FORTH AND LIVE!

Firing Capable Dollar-a-Year Men Would Put Amateurs In Big Jobs

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Prosecution and public contempt should result whenever a public official, whether he be of the "dollar a year man" variety or a veteran of the civil service, permits the impeding of the war effort in order to make sure certain interests are served.

But the attitude of many members of congress about certain recent disclosures is apt to do more harm than good. The remedy being demanded by these senators and representatives would be for the president to remove, without bothering to ascertain the facts in each individual case, every man connected with the various war units, every man who has had any connection with corporations which might benefit from that man's decisions. Whether the man has completely severed his connections with the companies in question or not!

Theoretically a good argument can be made for this contention. It is the same type of argument which resulted in the present law which forbids the secretary of the treasury from holding any government bonds. Henry A. Morgenthau, jr., would be a lawbreaker if he bought a single $25 defense bond!

It was contended, years ago when this law was passed, that the secretary of the treasury would have to make decisions and take actions which would affect the value of his own bonds if he owned any government securities.

That seems a little far fetched now but the idea was generally approved at the time. Actually there have been situations in the fiscal history of this government, when that law was a very sound safeguard.

SIMILARLY the fact that a prominent manufacturer, called into a position in the government where his expert knowledge should be of value to the war effort, may have cut his former ties, is not a first class protection against his practicing favoritism. Obviously this man might be laying a ground work for future profit.

But to bar anyone who had made a sufficient success in private business from an important position in the war setup would be a terrible blow to the efficiency of our war effort. It would hand the various types of production over to government supervision, conducted by rank amateurs, or to men who had failed to make good. Such a policy could easily prolong the war for years and thus result in the loss of tens of thousands of lives of American boys. It might result, by thus prolonging the war, in increasing the total war cost by billions.

It would be burning down the barn to get rid of a few rats. As long as human nature remains as it has been, since the earliest day of which there is any record, there will be grafters both in and out of the government service. There will always be the need for detecting their operations and sending them to jail.

Unfortunately even such a drastic step as some are urging now—the removal of every one with former business connections—would not be a guarantee against either favoritism or graft. When a very large number of men are put in positions where their actions will determine whether other men profit or not, there will always be a few whose itching palms attract bribes.

Unfortunately, moreover, if these officials have no previous connections, it will be even more difficult to catch them at their grafting.

MEANWHILE the sharp watch being kept by congressional committees is a very wholesome thing, both in exposing the rascals and in deterring potential rascals, providing it does not result in stupid action.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—In spite of all that has been written or said, I doubt if the reading public, as a whole, is much excited over the appointment of Elmer Davis as chief of the Office of War Information.

If it isn't, it's one of those mistakes which democracies sometimes make. There hasn't been a man come to Washington since the war effort started who has had such whole-hearted support—in advance—as Elmer Davis. If he fizzles in his broad task to give the public all of the news, clearly interpreted, which won't seriously damage us by providing information to the enemy, it will be because there is something incurably wrong with our information system—and not necessarily with Mr. Davis.

THE press relations battle in our government is a four-cornered fight. The people, who after all are entitled to the first say, have as their No. 1 complaint that they are not being reliably informed; that much information is conflicting; and that too much of it is delayed.

There is a second group, centered in congress but not exclusively there, which contends that the present set-up is costly, inept, and concerned principally with grinding its own agency axes.

A third faction in the battle royal feels that the public should be fed only propaganda—should be told only what is good for it in the light of our war effort and that all press relations agencies should be coordinated with this in mind.

The fourth battalion is composed of certain "ins" and their supporters and some of these, sadly enough, would be willing to sabotage any change to prove their present set-ups are the most effective.

Davis enters the arena a top-flight favorite with all but the last group and those who think the news should be buttered on both sides before it's handed over for public consumption. Davis, in his journalistic endeavors both in print and on the radio, has proved that he belongs to the tougher school which believes that the American people can take it—the good with the bad.

HIS only definite and conclusive statement of objective since his appointment has been that he hopes to give the public "more news, more clearly interpreted."

His powers, laid down by the definitions of the executive order appointing him and setting up OWI, are broad enough in print to permit him to do exactly as he desires.

But there is many as lip between an executive order and execution. If this is just another governmental spring house-cleaning which, as one correspondent expressed it, might consist only of sweeping the dust under the rug, then Davis has sacrificed in vain his $1,000 a week job in private life for about one-fifth that in the service of his wartime government.

Some Civilian Defense Suggestions.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FROM the Pacific coast a friend of mine who was the most eminent authority on war gases in the last war writes me some simple rules for civilians in preparing for war emergencies in the civilian population. I feel that they are so much simpler than many of the elaborate and frightening rules that have been put out that I should like to pass them on.

The emphasis is on preparation and prevention. Proper preparation increases morale and self-confidence. Self-aid is also strongly emphasized and the fact that civilians should make the most of what is available.

To help reduce the fire hazard: clear paper and rubbish from basements, attics, vacant lots and barns. Have water pails, sand and shovels in homes, garages, barns and in all buildings and working places.

Phosphorous Burns.

Phosphorous burns with yellow flames. Smother with dirt or water. Skin burns from phosphorous are bad; treat them with five per cent copper sulphate solution.

Oil burns with a yellow, heavy, smoky flame. Smother it with sand. Breathe through wet cloths to protect nose, throat and lungs from smoke.

Thermite and magnesium burn with white, sizzling flame. Spray edges with water and smother with dry sand or dirt.

Burns should be protected, preferably with sterile oils; shock should be treated with ordinary means; plasma loss should be treated with blood plasma transfustions. Particles of foreign matter in burns should be removed.

War Gases.

War gases may be mixed with incendiaries or demolition bombs. The best protection is obedience to air-raid rules; get inside with doors and windows closed. With ordinary wind conditions this will protect against dangerous concentrations. If windows are broken by bombs, breathe through wet cloths. Wash eyes, nose, mouth and throat with a solution of a teaspoonful of baking soda in a glass of water.

War gases are not brutally inhumane. They are less likely to produce death or permanent injury than bayonet, shot, shell or flames. It is not necessary to make a chemical identification of war gases in order to provide effective treatment. Tear gases are temporary in action and their effects may be handled by a two per cent baking soda solution.

Sneeze gases cause temporary discomfort with headache. They can be treated with a two per cent baking soda solution.

Lung irritants may bring no symptoms for 48 hours. If exposure is suspected, the best treatment is rest in bed.

Blister gases on the skin are very soluble in fats and are best treated with a three per cent solution of hydrogen peroxide or even simple washing with soap and water. Be careful where the blister fluid goes as it is also toxic.

A Farmer's Diary

Wet Weather

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS June has been extremely wet. Days of sunshine baked the surface of corn and soybean fields, making little checks with the soil underneath too wet to cultivate — and then, again, it rained.

Each time the little brooks and roadside ditches ran brimming with yellow muddy water. Long snags of willow roots lay at the brim of the dam above our village. The ramp through which water was turned to the abandoned mill, overflowed across the level pasture. A thousand streamlets trickled down cultivated hill fields, and in places obstructed the road with fine silt and mud a foot deep. In the bottoms, acres of corn, soybeans and oats were completely covered.

Waving wheat fields are now, in many places, as flat as if they had been rolled, with here and there a curious swirl of weighty heads still erect, as if in challenge.

Frogs croak as merrily as in the spring. A big bullfrog exercises his bass voice in the pond near our kitchen door. Dragon flies soar like biplanes close to the water and settle carefully on the protruding chestnut log, or on the edge of a lily pad, adjusting downward their gauzy wings by sudden, agile jerks. Tree toads sing all through the humid afternoon, and far into the night. Fireflies, at evening, gleam their strange amber lights above the level fields of wheat and grass.

Almost every field of thick alsike or clover has broad swaths mowed around it. Heavy rain has beaten it low within the stubble. Instead of side delivery rakes, to turn the mildewed grass in long loose windrows, some farmers have used the tedder to kick high the dripping swath and let the air draw through. Early-cut alfalfa fields have long rows of spoiled, wasted hay. Dark green new growth half covers these yellowed lines of waste.

Since work cannot be so urgent in the fields, many farmers come to the village to trade and visit with their friends.

"Well, Sam, are you havin' weather out your way?"

"None that'll raise any small potatoes . . . oh, it spoiled me some hay, but I told my wife it might not hurt too much if we'd plow all our hay under anyway . . and wheat cuttin's a week off, so I'm not goin' to worry. It's dead sure to stop rainin' sometime—and we're nearer that time every day."

DOROTHY THIERLEIN, ALEX SAYERS MARRY

Couple Wed Sunday Morning At Park Avenue Baptist Church In Double Ring, Formal Service.

IN A lovely wedding yesterday morning at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Miss Dorothy Eleanor Thierlein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Thierlein, jr., 255 Rowland avenue, became the bride of Alexander Irwin Sayers, son of Mrs. L. O. Shields, 356½ West Fifth street and Alfred Sayers, McKeesport, Pa. Rev. Albert L. Linder officiated for the double ring cremony.

Miss Edna Boswell sang Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly." Organ music played by Fred Sutcliffe included, "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner; DeKoven's "O Promise Me"; "Indian Love Call" by Friml; Cadman's "At Dawning"; "Liebestraum" by Liszt; "Intermezzo" by Heinz Proovst; and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The church was decorated with palms, candelabra and two mixed beauty baskets in pastel shades. The bride's father gave her in marriage. For the occasion she chose a white satin full length gown with a long train. Neckline was rounded having insets of lace and pearls. The long sleeves tapered to a point above the hand. In the headband were placed seed pearls and the long veil of tulle extended over the train. Her bouquet was of gardenias and white rose buds tied with white satin ribbons. A pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom, was the bride's only jewelry.

The bridesmaid, Miss Aileen Turner, wore a gown a peach colored chiffon with lace insets, having short full sleeves and a low rounded neckline. Her headband had small bunches of flowers on each side with a peach tinted veil falling over her shoulders. The flower girl, Caroline Thierlein, cousin of the bride, was dressed in a floor length net over a taffeta gown; aqua shade, trimmed in peach with a peach ribbon in her hair. She scattered rose petals along the aisle

The bridesmaid carried a bouquet of mixed flowers and wore a small silver pin with sets of rhinestones, a gift from the bride, who also gave the flower girl a small gold locket. Howard Potter, ring bearer, carried a white satin pillow, heart shaped, and trimmed in lace. Mrs. Thierlein wore a powder blue and white silk dress with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Mrs. Shields was attired in a white jersey floral print dress, violet and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Richard Wendland, Harry Boyd, Walter Lake, and Jack Flook, the bride's cousin, were ushers. Best man was Charles Burton, a close friend of the couple.

After the service, a reception was held at the bride's home in the garden. Color scheme was pink and white. The couple then left for a short eastern trip. For her traveling costume, the bride wore a navy blue dress with navy blue and white accessories. On their return they will make their home in the Washington apartments, 74 Bowman street.

Mrs. Sayers is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone company. The bridegroom is a graduate of McKeesport technical school and is employed at the Ohio Bell Telephone company as test board man.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Obie Rush, sons, Obie, jr. and James, of Mobile, Ala.; Mrs. Amie Land, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Mary Walmsley, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walmsley, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. March from Elizabeth, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, daughters, Catherine and Nancy Lou, Legionier, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Campbell, Glassport, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peterson, Mrs. Mary Krise, and Alfred Sayers, jr., brother of the bridegroom, all from McKeesport, Pa.; George Darling, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Flook, Mount Vernon; Mr. and Mrs Fred Koehler, Fremont; and Mrs. Henrietta Kennedy, New Port, Ken.

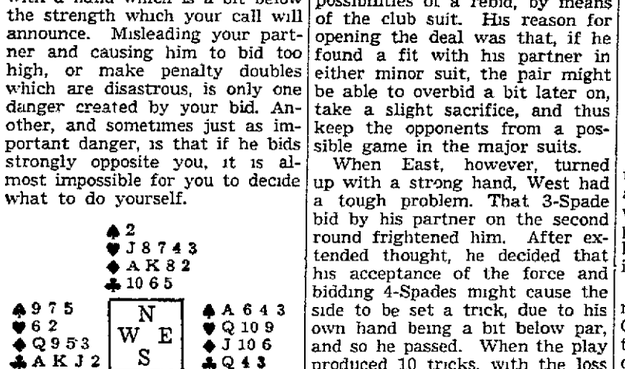
"The Authority on Authorities"

ANOTHER RISK CREATED

You do not take just one risk when you make an opening bid, in dealer or second hand position, with a hand which is a bit below the strength which your call will announce. Misleading your partner and causing him to bid too high, or make penalty doubles which are disastrous, is only one danger created by your bid. Another, and sometimes just as important danger, is that if he bids strongly opposite you, it is almost impossible for you to decide what to do yourself.



(Dealer: West North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1. 1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♠
2 Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

West had, at Table 1, what he considered a good reason for opening the bidding with a hand which missed by a fraction having the standard minimum strength. If the diamond Q had been the K, the hand would have been of standard minimum strength, considering that it held possibilities of a rebid, by means of the club suit. His reason for opening the deal was that, if he found a fit with his partner in either minor suit, the pair might be able to overbid a bit later on, take a slight sacrifice, and thus keep the opponents from a possible game in the major suits.

When East, however, turned up with a strong hand, West had a tough problem. That 3-Spade bid by his partner on the second round frightened him. After extended thought, he decided that his acceptance of the force and bidding 4-Spades might cause the side to be set a trick, due to his own hand being a bit below par, and so he passed. When the play produced 10 tricks, with the loss of only one in spades and two in diamonds, he was sorry.

Notice how much easier it was at the other table, where West passed on his first turn.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Spade on this deal. North doubles and all pass, what is the soundest defense to beat the contract?

Mrs. Mowry, Delegate For Soroptomist Club

Mrs. Corrine Mowry was the official delegate of the Mansfield Soroptomist club for the seventh biennial convention of the American Federation of Soroptomist clubs, held in Cleveland June 22 through June 26 in the Hotel Cleveland. Also in attendance for sessions part of the week were Miss Irene Figler and Mrs. Zora Weimer.

Mrs. Jean Bennett of Washington, D. C., national president, opened the convention Monday morning. After a "get-acquainted" luncheon, various groups met for informal discussion. An installation dinner by the junior unit, the Venture club, was held in the evening. Tuesday's business meetings were presided over by Miss Celia McCann, the second vice-president, and for the business meetings, Wednesday, Mrs. Harriet P. Tyler presided.

For the Wednesday noon awards luncheon, the Mansfield club was co-hostess with the Canton, Fremont and Erie, Pa., club. Of special interest on this program were the piano selections by David Weimer from Mansfield. On their "free" evening Wednesday, the women enjoyed the various amusements offered by the city and a lake cruise aboard the S. S. South America on Thursday. This day was highlighted by a smogasbord luncheon and a captain's dinner, following an afternoon of amusement.

The international business meeting on Friday was of particular importance. At this session the convention was addressed by Miss Hilda Beal, a member of the York, England club and by Miss Ruth Yap Hoy, a member of the Honolulu club. Choice for president of the American Federation of Soroptimists went to Mrs. Harriet P. Tyler, San Francisco. Mrs. Bennett installed the new officers in an impressive service at the formal dinner Friday.

The 1944 convention will be held in St. Louis, Mo.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Noel was a perfect lamb all this afternoon and tonight," Mary answered quickly. "He evidently was much impressed by your explanation of the necessity for my keeping up my dining and lunching with Steve.

"And, then, too," she went on musingly, "I think the fact that Olina's going to make a third on the excursion had a great deal to do with his docility. He doesn't exactly cotton to having me traveling to dinner alone with Stevie."

"I can understand that," I said, "especially,"—

"Especially," she echoed with a wry smile, "when he thinks of the stuff I was pulling with Stevie. He doesn't know how you took every inch of skin off my back with your knout last night.

"I'm awfully ashamed of the way I bedeviled Noel with my pretense of being interested in Stevie," she said, "all because I thought mistakenly, as I can see now, that Noel was neglecting me.

"But I'm not ashamed of what I'm doing now," she said stoutly. "Now that Noel has fallen into line, I shall just go to town on Stevie and see how much I can dig up about this subversive stuff he's pulling."

"And Olina's going across town," she went on with a gamin grin. "In fact, I don't know but Olina's going to cut me out with my leading man."

"What do you mean by that?" I asked sharply, for I felt personally responsible to Olga for having enlisted her daughter's aid in this espionage on Stephen Redfield.

"Did Olina show any undue interest in Stephen tonight, while you three were arranging the appointment for tomorrow night?"

"No, nor any interest due, either," she quipped, then interpolated a quick apology.

"Sorry; and you're entitled to bean me for that one, too," she said. "Honest, I won't spring another one today. So now let me assure you in proper language that Olina isn't a bit interested in Stephen, although she's pretending fascination, the same as I am.

"But little Stevie's certainly sitting up and taking notice of Olina," she went on, a grin still quirking the corners of her mouth. "I suppose it's partly the glamour of associating with a real princess and having her apparently hanging on his words, but partly it's because Stevie never misses any bets where a pretty girl is concerned, and Olina is all that and then some, you know."

"Yes, I know," I said absently, then roused to qualify my answer. "But as Mr. Ticer would say, she doesn't hold a candle to you."

"I'm afraid you're looking at me through the rosiest of pink glasses fitted over the eyes of love," she countered. "But I'm tremendously complimented, nevertheless. And now is there anything else you wish to know? I left Noel cooling his heels in our apartment, and—"

"And of course you want to get down there," I told her. "I don't need you any longer, although I'm always glad to have you with me. But you remember my father said he wished to see you before you slept."

CEREMONY TAKES PLACE IN EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Miss Evangeline Dorothy Hammond Becomes Bride of Harry James Weaver Saturday; Reception At Home.

AT 6:30 p. m. Saturday, Miss Evangeline Dorothy Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Hammond, 160 Blymyer avenue, became the bride of Harry James Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weaver, 249 Grace street. The marriage was solemnized in the Grace Episcopal church by Rev. Glenn F. Lewis. Preceding the ceremony Miss Louise Krause, organist, played "Because" and "The Wedding March" from "Lohengrin," by Wagner. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was the recessional.

The altar was attractively decorated with white gladioli and lilies, two seven-branch candelabra and altar candles. Miss Mary E. Shafer of Cleveland, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Rosemary Tingley of Mansfield. Guests were shown to their places by Dick Robison and William Snyder. Richard E. Hammond, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Weaver's best man.

Mr. Hammond gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's street length dress was in ashes of roses shade. She had white accessories and a corsage of white roses and swansonia. Miss Shafer was attired in a heavenly blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of sunburst roses. A green dress was worn with white accessories by Miss Tingley. Pink carnations formed her corsage. Mrs. Hammond appeared at her daughter's wedding in a beige dress with dubonnet and white accessories. Mrs. Weaver's suit was navy blue and her accessories were in a natural shade.

Reception for 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with white gladioli, lilies and swansonia. A miniature bridal couple topped the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver are on a wedding trip to West Virginia. For traveling the bride wore a red and white redingote with white accessories. Upon their return to this city, the couple will live at 305 West Third street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weaver are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. He is employed by the Pennsylvania railroad.

The only out of town guest in addition to Miss Shafer, was Mrs. A. E. Brown of Cleveland.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Credit Frank "Porky" Biscan, former Lima Panda southpaw hurler, who was almost a Mansfield Brave once, with the "honey of the week."

Porky, who left the St. Louis Browns recently to join the armed forces of Uncle Sam, was telling Bill Snypp, Lima sports writer, the difference between pitching in the majors and the minors.

"Biggest difference," says he, "is the necessity of getting the ball over the plate because few batters strike at bad balls in the big show.

"Umpires give the pitcher nothing," Porky continued. "They want the ball belt high, and no wider than the middle of the pan.

"And they make mistakes too," declared Biscan. (And now get set for the aforementioned "honey.")

"I told a couple of them there were better umpires in the Ohio State league," related the Porky one. "THAT was THE MEANEST THING I COULD THINK OF."

Porky didn't do so bad in the big time this spring for a freshman southpaw flinger.

The former Toledo Mud Hen hurled 27 2-3 innings of relief work in 10 games. He gave only seven runs, six of them earned, and allowed only 13 hits, or less than one every other frame.

He walked ten batters and fanned 12, and his earned run average was less than two per nine-inning game.

Biscan faced the Athletics and Senators three times, the Yankees twice, and the Red Sox and White Sox once each.

He pitched to Joe DiMaggio twice, walking him once, and getting him on a pop-up the other time. The only time he faced Ted Williams, he forced the Boston slugger to ground out.

The only extra base hit made off his delivery was a fluke home run by Jim Vernon of Washington on a ground ball that got away from an outfielder and rolled to the fence.

And this is the guy Dewey Stover left cooling his heels in a Mansfield hotel lobby because Dewey was too busy to interview him after making an engagement to discuss contract.

Yankees Drop Two To Chisox

Champs Kicked Around In 3 Western Cities.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(AP Sports Writer)

IT BEGINS to look as if the New York Yankees, expected by many to be naming a starting pitcher for the World series by the Fourth of July, won't even be in first place at that fast approaching stage of the campaign if they don't pull out of their current spin.

Kicked around at three stops out of four on their two-week swing to the west, the Yanks hit bottom yesterday when the Chicago White Sox mauled them twice, 6-2 and 13-1.

Not only did the sixth-place White Sox sting the Champions of the world with their first double defeat of the year, but they did it at the expense of topnotch pitchers, Red Ruffing and Ernie Bonham.

As a result, the Yankee lead shrank to five and a half games.

To make matters worse, Yankee Manager Joe McCarthy was put to bed with a recurrence of the internal ailment that plagued him last season and wasn't able to leave with the team last night for Philadelphia.

Ted Lyons out-pitched Ruffing in the first game, to draw even with the Yankee hurler's lifetime record of 251 triumphs.

At Cleveland, the Boston Red Sox took the first game, 8-3, by scoring all their runs in the fifth inning, but the Indians took the second when Pinch-Hitter Chubby Dean singled the winning run across for a 3-2 decision.

The Detroit Tigers also split a pair with the Philadelphia Athletics and missed a chance to climb over the Indians into third place. Hal Newhouser pitched three-hit ball in gaining a 3-2 decision for the Tigers, but Luman Harris blanked them on five hits in the afterpiece, 3-0.

Washington's Senators nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 14-13 and 7-6.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders of the National league, narrowly escaped the Yankees' fate when Joe Medwick tripled to give them a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in the second game after the Reds had bagged the opener, 6-3.

Seven home runs carried Pittsburgh to a double victory over New York 8-7 and 9-3. Elbie Fletcher's four-bagger in the ninth inning decided the first game after the Giants had tied the score four times.

Tommy Hughes pitched the Philadelphia Phils to a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 15 innings but the Cards took the second game, 3-1, behind the five-hit hurling of Lon Warneke and stayed nine games behind the Dodgers.

Jim Tobin tossed a three-hitter as the Boston Braves blanked the Chicago Cubs for the second straight time, 3-0, but after 21 scoreless innings the Cubs rallied to win the nightcap, 5-1.

Ice Man Cools Off Merchants

Winbigler Fans Twelve Lucas Men, Supplies Win.

Ice Man Bob Winbigler cooled off the Lucas Merchants with 12 strikeouts yesterday, and the Athletic Supplies scored their first win the baseball season 8 to 3 at Liberty park.

Bob Donnan and Joe Atton led the Athletic attack. Donnan getting three hits in four trips to the dish, and Atton three in five, including a triple. Bob Boyd clouted a home run for the Supplies. Atton's triple came with the bases loaded.

A fair sized crowd saw the game, and the collection for the USO amounted to $5.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Thomas Kay, who writes from Washington, D. C., suggests launching a campaign to have all baseball clubs and college teams kick in their home plates for scrap rubber. . . . He figures wood or stone could be substituted. . . . Most clubs could whittle out a nice ivory plate from the over-supply found in the players' domes. . . . Here's reason 2,001 why you lost your $2. . . . At the Fairmont hoss track the other day, even the camera was wrong. The hoss whose nose was nearest to the wire finished second. . . . The judges called it right, however. They looked closely and saw that a strong wind had curved the wire about an inch away from the leading nag. . . . Until they were soothed by getting Clyde Vollmer, Birmingham fans were boiling because the parent Cincy Reds sent Lindsey Deal to Atlanta, a rival club. . . . Last time the folks around Pittsburgh saw Ensign Herbert (Babe) Bonn, former Duquesne basketball biggie, he was heading for San Diego and said he had a hunch something was brewing just west of there. That was Nov. 30. A recent letter indicates Babe was somewhere in the midst of the Coral sea scrap. . . . Another veteran of the Coral sea affair is Ensign John I. Providents Coast To Win

Scores Five Runs In First at Willoughby.

Mansfield Provident Loan girls went on a five-run scoring spree in the first inning at Willoughby yesterday and coasted to a 6-3 victory over the Painesville Hi-Speeds behind Fran Knapp's 7-hit hurling.

Painesville took advantage of the absence of Third Sacker Donna Schuster, visiting her brother in a Tennessee army camp, to lay down a bunt barrage in the fourth inning for four hits and three runs. But Fran held them in check the rest of the way.

Singles by Herrick, Holda and Jocha, a walk to Tipul, and a life for Whiteman on a fielder's choice, plus a long double to center by Flip Beatty gave the Providents their five runs in the first.

They added another in the sixth when Bessemer singled, stole second and went to third on a wild peg by the catcher, and come home on an infield out.

Prize fielding plays were a double-killing started by Bucky Holda after snaring a hot grounder, and a long throw from left field by Tipul to cut down a runner at third.

Tomorrow evening the Providents play at Ashland at 7 o'clock.

Mansfield Travelers ran into something tough at Mt. Vernon yesterday where they dropped a 1-5 decision to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass baseball club.

Pitcher Pat Patterson saved the Travelers from a shutout when he stole home in the eighth inning. Pat fanned 10 of the Glassworkers and didn't allow a walk, but Mt. Vernon put its seven hits together in the middle frames for a decisive win.

GALION DEFEATED BY FREMONT CLUB

GALION—Galion dropped a 6-2 decision to the league leaders, Fremont, when they met Sunday at Heise park. Fremont has suffered only one league defeat this season.

Fremont was closely pressed by the Jaycees but pulled through with a win. Fleck, Fremont third sacker, hit one of the longest hits seen at Heise park when he parked a 3 and 2 pitch over the left field wall, a distance of 400 feet. His homer drove in one run.

Dean's Pinch Single Wins

Hits For Boudreau To Split In Double Bill.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau's pre-season announcement that the Cleveland Indians would be satisfied to end the baseball season in the first division looked solid today as the Tribe opened a four game series here.

The Redskins split a doubleheader with second-place Boston yesterday, losing the first 8 to 3 and winning the night cap 3 to 2, to give the Red Sox a 3-1 margin in their series. This settled the Indians in third place, nine games behind the league-leading Yankees and 3½ behind Boston, but only three percentage points above the Detroit Tigers.

Chubby Dean, pinch hitting for Boudreau in the eighth inning in yesterday's second game, slapped out a single to break a tie and give the Indians their only victory over Boston.

Hockett opened the eighth with a single, Keltner sacrificed again, and Hockett got to third on Heath's infield out. Although there were two outs, Fleming was purposely passed for the third time. It was then that Dean cracked the single to center that meant that margin of victory.

The Redskins pushed over a run in the second inning of the first game yesterday, but collapsed in the fifth frame when Boston scored eight runs on seven hits and an error.

Church Captures Muzzle Match

L. Church won the Mansfield Muzzle Loader club's 30-yard offhand shoot Saturday with 61 per cent on two cups, two firsts, two seconds and a third in six matches, while Elmer Adams was second with 55.5 per cent on two cups, three firsts and a third.

Cy Hasinger won the round target match with a string measure of 1.34 inches for three shots.

J. Baldwin took first in each of five matches in 50-yard rest shooting, and in one match shot the remarkable string measure of .83 inches, the lowest three-shot string this year.

Adams was awarded the "Navy" cup, presented by Lieut. Fleet Corwin, for the next three months with five firsts in the last three months.

Segura Wallops Billy Talbert

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Francisco Segura of Guayaquil, Ecuador, has ambitions involving a certain tournament at Forest Hills in New York next September, and Queen City tennis fans who watched him cop the 41st Tri-state tennis championship here believe he's justified.

The chunky 21-year-old Miami (Fla.) university junior walloped Cincinnati's Billy Talbert in yesterday's Tri-state finals 1-6, 6-1, 6-2, 12-10

Heafner Ties Record Of 264 In Winning Mahoning Open

By RAY BLOSSER

GIRARD—(AP)—Move over, Craig Wood. Big Clayton Heafner is nudging in on the low scoring golf business.

The Durham, N. C., marksman shaved eight strokes from par to post a sensational 264 in successful defense of his Mahoning open golf title yetserday.

His 72 hole total gave him $1,000 first prize and tied the world record of 264 established by Craig Wood in the 1940 metropolitan open. The P. G. A. announced flatly, however, that it wouldn't go into the books since the Mahoning Valley Golf club 6,004-yard layout is several hundred yards to short. Fred Cochran, P. G. A. tournament manager, said the P. G. A. did not recognize low scores on any layout shorter than 6,400 yards.

Heafner finished three strokes ahead of Horton Smith of Pinehurst, N. C., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Harrisburg, Pa., who compiled 267s for $650 apiece.

Big Clayt, seldom a winner, but frequently a leader (for a while), said this time his iron shots were deadly, and his drives were true. Only once—on his third round—did he go as high as par, his eighteens reading 66, 65, 68 and 65.

A 71 Saturday sank Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., star who is golf's leading money winner at $11,623. Victor in the recent Hale America tourney, Ben pulled into a third place tie at 269 with two others, thanks to fine Sunday rounds of 66 and 65. This deadlocked him with Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Cal., and Gene Kunes of Philadelphia, each of whom pocketed $75.

Bob Kuzava Wins 11th For Senators

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Pitcher Bob Kuzava's name might as well be Bonanza so far as the pace-setting Charleston Senators of the Mid-Atlantic league are concerned.

The senators copped both ends of a doubleheader with Canton in the West Virginia capital yesterday by identical scores, 2 to 1, with Kuzaza, former Mansfield Brave, hurling the nightcap to give him a season record of 11 victories in 12 starts.

The double win put the Senators five full games ahead of second-place Erie, Pa., which lost to cellar-dwelling Zanesville at Erie, 1 to 3. The victory broke Zanesville's 11-game losing streak.

The Dayton Ducks defeated visiting Springfield 4 to 3.

A Man's Woman + + +

CHAPTER XVIII

Turning in at the grass-grown walk, Kay was more than ever aware of the disintegration which, swiftly now, was taking its toll of the once proud Kenyon's home.

Had opportunity sharpened her ability to evaluate facts which she has chosen to minimize or to ignore entirely? The place was only a whit, an imperceptible whit more tumbledown, more out at the elbows than it had been yesterday, last week, even last month. Strange she had never seen clearly before how forlorn it looked, how hopeless. Yes, that was the word, hopeless. She would have to take action, and at once. No more dallying.

A job in New York. A real job. Real money. Mr. Lord had advised her to take it. He would not stand in her way, he said. He appreciated her loyalty . . . she had explained to Fred Jones that she couldn't leave the man who offered her a chance when she needed it so desperately. Besides, the Sweet shop bought National candies. It would have access to any idea she developed.

She decided, "I'll not tell mother about the offer until tomorrow. She wouldn't sleep a wink tonight. I'll talk it over with someone first, someone sound, someone impartial. Gary. I could depend on Gary. It would mean leaving Somerset . . . leaving Gary." Her heart pounded uncomfortably. Leaving Gary! She hadn't realized what that would mean to her, how empty a Garyless existence would be. She had not accepted Fred Jones' offer. She could reject it, go on as she was going. No, that was the trouble. She couldn't go on. Drifting deeper and deeper into debt. Her mother's nerves were raw with worry. She owed it to her mother, to herself, to grasp opportunity when it offered, to grasp and be thankful.

Aunt Cora met her at the door. A buttery, apologetic Aunt Cora.

"Elsa's been having one of her spells," Aunt Cora said. "I hope you won't pay attention to what she says when she's crazy like. The poor child is that down in the mouth I don't know what's to become of her."

"She'd feel a whole lot better if she'd do something to take her mind off herself," Kay said. "There's no tonic like work. I've just taken a large dose myself; so I know."

"Work?" Aunt Cora drew back in hurt surprise. "My Elsa work? But what could she do? She don't know how to work."

"Neither did I, but I found out soon enough. Whoever gave birth to the old adage, 'Where there's a will there's a way' must have been thinking about work. None of us knows what we might be capable of doing until we try."

"Of course," Aunt Cora hastened to repair her mistake. "I'm sure poor, dear Elsa will want to help. She'll want to do her share soon as she's able. But she ain't well. You know she ain't well. I was thinking we ought to have a doctor."

"Elsa doesn't need a doctor. She needs a new spine. She's poisoned herself with envy, with spite and jealousy. No doctor can perscribe for that sort of illness."

"Why Kay Kenyon, you heartless girl! Talking so about your own dear cousin . . ."

Kay interrupted the whining indictment with, "Please excuse me, Aunt Cora. I want to brush up for supper. Where's mother?"

"Here I am, d a u g h t e r," Ellen entered the hall, wiping her hands on her apron. "I was setting the table and making dumplings. The farmer brought us a lovely chicken."

"He's a lovely farmer. Any other news?"

"Yes dear. Mr. Fowler called. He said to tell you he'd be a little late. He was detained by his work at the mill."

"Thanks, darling. I'll be down to lend a hand in a jiffy."

The River road. Velvet darkness and a star-spangled sky canopying a brooding earth. Gary brought his car to a sliding stop on a stretch of grass by the roadside Kay, without preamble, broke one of their frequent silences with, "Gary, I have an offer to go to New York."

"You what?" Gary turned off the engine. "I'm not hearing so well this evening."

"I have an offer to go to New York. With the National Candy company. In their merchandising department. One of their salesmen saw the windows I did for the Sweet shop. He called up headquarters in New York and they think they might use my ideas—that is if I have any more ideas. Anyway, they want to try the two I've already done, 'A Kiss for Cinderella' and 'The Chocolate Soldier.' Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But—well—there you are."

"Nothing fantastic about it. Gary lit a cigaret. He smoked only when he was deeply moved. "Obviously the National Candy company knows its nuggets. You'll . . . accept the offer?"

"I don't know," she replied thoughtfully. "I should. The pay is so much more than I'd ever dreamed I could earn; and we need — the family finances are very much in need of repair. The offer does seem providential, coming just at the time it did. And yet . . ."

Gary reached over, took Kay's hand, pressed it with gentle firmness.

"Better take it," he said. "Providence doesn't often pay return visits."

Kay wanted to withdraw her hand. She couldn't. That hurt in her heart; that ache in her throat. She had expected . . . What had she expected? That Gary would ask her to stay? He hadn't. He had advised her to go without a word of regret for the parting.

"Thanks," she said and was glad he could not see her lips quiver. "I'll take your advice."

"It's the toughest job I ever tackled, giving you that advice," Gary said, raising Kay's hand and rubbing it gently along his cheek. "At that I'm afraid I'd play dog in the manger, I'd argue against what I know is right for you were it not for the fact it will not be good-bye, unless you want it so. The home office of my firm is in New York. I'll be through with my work here in a few weeks, and I'll be heading for the home port. So it's farewell and hail, if you'll put up with a lug like me in the big town."

Suddenly for Kay the darkness was shot with rose. The moon dipped low and the stars sang in their courses.

In the Kenyon house, the news of Kay's offer and her decision to accept it had the effect of a shell bursting on the breakfast table. Surprisingly, Ellen Kenyon was the calmest of the lot.

"Of course daughter, you know best," she said. "If you want to try your wings away from home, then you must try them."

Cora Kenyon lost her head completely. "You can't do such a terrible thing to us," she shouted, jumping from her chair and confronting Kay with raised clenched fists. "You can't up and leave us all in the lurch like we was dirt under your feet. You got your family to think of. Take the bread out of our mouth, would you?"

"Now, now Cora," Asa Kenyon said, "It's not as bad as that. We'll make out somehow. We can't expect Kay—"

"Shut up!" She turned upon her husband. "What you bring in this house wouldn't feed a mouse. Me and Elsa could go naked for all of you. This family sticks together. If one sinks we all sink. Miss Kay can get it outta her head that because she's makin' a few dollars she can run out on us."

Elsa, making one of her rare appearances at breakfast, said, "What would you expect?"

Kay rose. "Expect nothing more from me," she said, coolly, "then you'll not be disappointed. I'm accepting the position in New York, and I'm taking mother with me. This house belongs to mother. You're free to live in it for the present, but you'll have to take care of the expenses—taxes, upkeep. There are to be no more charge accounts, unless you establish them yourselves. Living as we have on the little money Dad left, hasn't helped any of us. It's weakened us, made syncophants of us. The money's gone. It's just as well. Now we're going to stand on our own feet. Mother, come downtown and have lunch with me in the shop. We can talk over the details of our move there."

The evening before her departure for New York Kay saved for Gary. Would he want this exclusive privilege? She could not be sure, but she could hope It had not been easy to escape the clatter of what to a small-town audience was an exciting adventure. Led by Tally Holmes and Eunice Ross, the gay young crowd which had done so much toward wearing the steps of the old Kenyon place to their present dilapidated state insisted on gathering for a farewell "with fireworks." Kay eluded their clamor with an excuse of unfinished packing and a wish to spend her last evening with her mother. Ronnie had been so insistent she had been forced to end his pleadings with a curt "No." She had hurt him, but it was the only way.

The moon was coming up over the garden when Gary appeared, unannounced, out of the velvet dark. Wordlessly, Kay joined him. Together they strolled down the worn path fringed with its tangle of neglected flowers. He took her hand, held it close against him so that she could feel the beat of his heart, the tensing of his body against an emotion that left them both breathless.

"Kay," he said, "it's only for a little while, isn't it? You want it to be—only for a little while?"

"Yes Gary," Kay said, struggling to keep from crying out against "such sweet sorrow." "Only until we're sure—"

Gary stopped in the shadow of the lilacs. "Good luck then, my sweet, and may God keep you until our tomorrow." The warm embrace of hungry arms, the warm pressure of hungry lips. The stars danced and the moon hung so low one could touch its silver.

Gary was not in the chari-vari that saw Kay off at the station. She knew he would not be there. After the star dust, such an uproar would be desecration.

Six Shutouts In A. A. Chalked Up

(By Associated Press)

American Association pitchers added six shutouts to their records today as a result of yesterday's eight-game double-header program.

Two of the shut-outs were credited to Indianapolis' rookie Ray Poat and Earl Reid who took turns setting down Milwaukee, 7 to 0 and 5-0.

The Minneapolis Millers whitewashed Toledo 2-0 and 1-0. Mickey Heafner allowed Toledo but five hits in the opener. Van Mungo and Owen Scheetz shared pitching honors in the Millers' second shutout victory.

Kansas City and Louisville split their bargain day bill, the Colonels nabbing a 3-2 decision in the first and the Blues coming through, 1-0, in the afterpiece.

Columbus kept St. Paul in the cellar by winning both encounters, 8-3 and 1-0. Ted Wilks gave up only four blows in elbowing the Birds to the shutout triumph.

PITCHER ENLISTS ON TOSS OF COIN

CAMP LEE, Va. —(AP)— Henry Nowak, former pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, is in the army because of a toss of a coin. Nowak and his brother-pitcher, John, supported their family, and one of them would have to go to the army, with the other sticking to baseball.

The brothers tossed a coin, and Henry lost. John is pitching for the Atlanta club in the Southern Association. Henry takes his regular turn on the mound for the Camp Lee nine, which is studded with former big-leaguers.

SOIL STERILIZER DEVELOPED

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)— Agricultural engineers at the University of California developed a system for pasteurizing the soil. A screw conveyor forces the soil through a heated tube at the rate of five cubic feet per hour. The heat kills disease-producing organisms in the soil.

TOOTHPICK HOLDERS

BREWER, Me. —(U.P.)— Three years ago Mrs. Charles H. King started collecting toothpick holders. Now she has 112 of them, made of all sorts of glass, china, iron, silver and crockery. She hopes to collect 1,000.

I—VITAL STATISTICS

2—Card of Thanks

WE DESIRE to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to our friends, neighbors and relatives, who were so kind to us during the death of our dear son and brother Ray Young, to all those who sent flowers. Rev. Swoyer for his consoling words, and especially the Saptano boys, the blood donors, the Finefrock Funeral Directors for their kind and efficient service and all those who helped in any way.

Mrs. Cora Young, Mr. C. J. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hamman and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Egner and Family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrence and Daughter, and Miss Mabel Young. (C-k)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane. She will be glad to render service and advice you need.

STOCK MARKET DISPLAYS MILD UPWARD TREND

However Many Leaders Stay Stagnant, Doing Little or Nothing on Board.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mild rising tendencies were exhibited by scattered stocks in today's market proceedings but many leaders did little or nothing.

Gainers of minor fractions included N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Johns-Manville and Loews. Unchanged to off a shade were American Telephone, Woolworth, Glenn Martin, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel and American Water Works.

Financial quarters scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that "most observers of the scrap market foresee a repetition of last winter's shortage in spite of the present supply meeting steel-making needs."

Conciliation Pleas Close Convention Of Rubber Workers

criticize labor's war effort" but that an amendment was made to include Pegler's name in the resolution.

In a luncheon session yesterday, the delegates heard George B. Roberts, labor consultant of the War Production board, urge their utmost cooperation in the war production drive.

"In the race to outproduce the Axis," said Roberts, "every American working hour is 'zero hour,' a precious space of time in which our assembly lines can send forth so many tanks, so many planes and so many guns to deal crushing blows to our enemies.

"This is a war of machines, materials and equipment. In the last war, given equal equipment, manpower was the deciding factor. Today, we must state the case differently — given equal manpower, machines and materials are the decisive elements.

"If we fail to win this war decisively because of the lack of war materials which we might have supplied, we ourselves will have destroyed our own freedom. The tank which you could get out of your plant today but don't—the plane you could finish today but don't—mean that American soldiers will die who might have lived and the battles will be lost that might have been won."

President Walker said that the group conferences held at the convention were mostly on technical matters. One of the rubber workers' greatest problems, according to Walker, is the handling of poisonous solvents necessary for the production of synthetic rubber.

"But labor is going ahead with the experiments for the good of the war effort," said Walker.

Herbert Dawson, international representative of the URWA in Washington, said that plans were being made to speed up the placement of governmental orders to enable rubber factories to work at their highest speed.

Dawson also said that arrangements were being made to have work transferred from plants being overworked to others needing orders. Walker said that the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company was being included in this plan.

MILLION JEWS MASSACRED

LONDON—(U.P.)—The Germans have massacred at least 1,000,000 Jews in Europe since the war began, a spokesman for the World Jewish Congress said today.

THEATERS

Dancing Feature.

Eleanor Powell combines the hula, the conga, rhumba and tap in one big number called the "Hawonga," for her picture "Ship Ahoy," showing at the Ohio. It's one of the five new numbers that the dancer presents and this one is given in company with Red Skelton, co-star of the picture. Comedian Bert Lahr, Tommy Dorsey's orchestra and a cast that includes William Post, jr., and Virginia O'Brien are other attractions of the film.

Band Featured.

Kay Kyser rounds up a spy ring in his new comedy with music, "My Favorite Spy," at the Madison. The bandleader plays himself, as always, and appears as the maestro of a popular hotel orchestra. His entrance into secret service on the eve of his honeymoon affords complications since he can't tell his bride that a certain beautiful blonde is his partner in service. Ellen Drew appears as the bride and Jane Wyman as an intelligence operator. Veronica Lake and Robert Preston are featured in "This Gun for Hire," the second picture.

Autry Western.

"Stardust On the Sage," Gene Autry's picture at the Ritz gives the star another chance to save the day for a family caught in the clutches of an unscrupulous promoter. Smiley Burnette, Louise Currie and Monte Montague are in the picture. Bela Lugosi furnishes thrills in "The Corpse Vanishes," the second picture dealing with a fiend who puts to death a number of brides. Luana Walters has the role of a woman reporter on the trail of the fiend's story.

Nautical Comedy.

A couple of seadogs mistaken for a pair of wealthy society sailors have their fun in "Duke of the Navy," the Park attraction Ralph Byrd and Stubby Kruger portray the two-some who are singled out for fleecing by a fake soldier of fortune. Veda Ann Borg plays the decoy and Sammy Cohen has a comedy role. Marlene Dietrich and Fred MacMurray are teamed in "The Lady Is Willing," that shares the bill.

House Hears of Prospects as Billion Dollar War Effort Bill Reaches Floor.

the hump," he said, "and from now on it becomes a question of improvement in process, of getting better distribution of raw material and seeing that production is attuned to strategy."

Nelson told the subcommittee that President Roosevelt's goal of 18,000,000 tons of shipping would be met, and added: "We can beat it, if we can get the steel plate." He said he was "certain we will meet the tank objective."

The warning on the manpower situation came from Paul V. McNutt, head of the war manpower commission.

The shortage can be met, the committee reported, by training workers within and out of industry and by transferring workers from non-essential to essential industries.

"The possibility of 4,500,000 men in the army by the end of 1942, and 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 men in 1943," the committee said, coupled with a shifting of workers from farms and non-essential work to industry and the necessity of adequate farm labor to supply the food needs of the United Nations," require careful management of our manpower resources."

The new supply bill carries funds for almost a score of war agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. Most of them have been operating in the past on emergency allocations.

While more than one-half the total, $1,100,000,000, is for the war shipping administration, a $95,000,000 item for Henderson's Office of Price Administration was expected to be the only part of the bill over which a controversy of any consequence would develop.

The committee more than halved Henderson's original request and shaved $66,000,000 from the budget bureau's recommendation. To make certain the $95,000,000 would be all that Henderson's agency would have to spend during the new year, the committee wrote into the bill a restriction that the OPA funds "shall not be augmented by allocations or transfers of funds from any other appropriation."

The OPA item was almost certain to bring into the open the resentment that has been smouldering in some congressional quarters since Henderson began appointing state administrators without consulting the patronage views of Capitol Hill.

For other agencies the committee followed almost to the letter the budget recommendations.

Amounts approved by the committee included:

Ashland Man Killed In Fall From Car; State Toll At Five

ing home from Ashland with a friend, William Swindaman of Ashland. Swindaman told Ashland police that Williams fell from the car on North Cottage street after opening the door to throw some tobacco out of the car.

Williams was taken to the Samaritan hospital where authorities said he had suffered a concussion and shock. His condition failed to improve and he died early this morning.

The victim was born in Maryland Oct. 8, 1878, but has lived in Ashland county since his youth. He made his home with a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Gerwig, Ashland R. D. 3. Other survivors are another sister, Mrs. Julia Barber of Ashland, and a brother, Henry Williams of Ashland R. D. 3.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Gilbert chapel in Ashland Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. William Desenberg officiating. Burial will be in Nankin cemetery.

Only a few other accidents were reported in the area. Otto C. Johnson, 49, Lexington R. D. 2, suffered a leg fracture late Saturday when struck by an auto operated by Lawrence E. Huffman, 33, of 343 Sturges avenue, on U. S. Route 42, four miles south of Lexington. Huffman was arrested on an unsafe operation charge by state highway patrolmen.

Richard Crane of Galion received slight contusions and scalp lacerations yesterday when he was thrown from his motorcycle on East Charles street in Galion.

In traffic accidents throughout the state, four other persons met death. Lawrence D. Rogers, 50, president of an Akron oil company, died of injuries received in a head-on auto collision.

A street car killed Louise Olson, 72, at Cincinnati, Claywade Riggsby, 35, a worker at Wright field, was killed by a Big Four freight train near Fairfield while walking on the tracks.

Kathleen, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. English of near Canton, was killed in an automobile-bus collision.

Nine other persons met violent death of the week-end. A bomber crash killed four soldiers near Lebanon a few minutes after they had taken off from Patterson field.

Two men and a woman drowned in Lake Milton, near Youngstown, when a rowboat with an outboard motor overturned. The victims were Mrs. Estelle Ryer, 35; George H. Parry, 44, both of Cleveland, and James H. Parry, 47, brother of George, of Diamond, O.

William Noll, 14, Cleveland, drowned while swimming in a quarry at Marblehead.

James Lee Schard, 2, of Cleveland, drowned in a small pond at the farm of his grandfather in Broadview Heights.
